Police Department

The City of Mason has a full-service, internationally accredited municipal police agency employing about 36 full-time police officers, including the Chief of Police, Assistant Chief of Police, 7 sergeants, and 3 detectives.

The City of Mason Police Department has about thirteen fully-equipped, marked police cruisers and several unmarked police cars. The department operates four community policing patrol districts to which officers are assigned for periods of 12 to 24 months. The Mason Police Department operating budget is approximately $2.9 million.

AGENCY BACKGROUND

City of Mason police officers average eight years of professional police experience. The Chief of Police holds a Doctorate in Public Administration and is a graduate of the FBI National Academy. The Assistant Chief holds a Master of Science degree in Criminal Justice, is a certified law enforcement executive, a graduate of the FBI National Academy, a graduate of the Police Executive Leadership College, and a graduate of the Northwestern University Traffic Institute School of Police Staff and Command where he received the Franklin Kreml Leadership Award. Five sergeants are graduates of the Northwestern University Traffic Institute School of Police Staff and Command.

Officers hired by the City of Mason Police Department must successfully complete a comprehensive screening process, including a thorough background investigation, a polygraph, psychological screening, medical examination, fitness test, and drug screen. New officers must complete 17 weeks of state mandated training, and a 12-week City of Mason Police Field Training Program. The department has an in-service training program for all personnel that includes a tuition reimbursement program and an academic pay incentive to encourage officers to obtain baccalaureate and advanced degrees. Officers are required to qualify at least four times a year with on- and off-duty weapons, as well as additional training two times per year on an electronic firearms system that focuses on prudent decision making in the use of force.

The Mason Police Department is a major partner in the Warren County Tactical Response Unit, a joint law enforcement initiative to handle high-profile, high-risk threats and acts of violence.

The City of Mason Fire Department is currently made up of approximately 70 fire and emergency medical personnel. The department consists of twenty-three full-time employees. In addition to the fire chief, full-time staff consists of one deputy fire chief, three shift supervisor/battalions (24/48), two fire inspectors (firefighter/EMT-B minimum), fifteen FF/Paramedics, and a full-time secretary. The remainder of the Fire Department membership is currently made up of part-time paid firefighter/EMT-B's and firefighter/paramedics who staff the fire and EMS vehicles.

The Fire Department has 17 vehicles, including 2 Quints (purchased in 1999), 2 pumpers, one 100-foot tower ladder, one heavy rescue/hazardous materials truck, 4 paramedic vehicles, 2 paramedic response cars, 2 paramedic/fire marshal cars, and additional staff vehicles. These vehicles respond from one of the city's two fire stations or the administrative office. The City of Mason Fire Department handles approximately 3,000 fire and medical emergency responses each year. Dispatching is through the Warren County Emergency Communications and 9-1-1 Center located in Lebanon, a city 10 miles north of Mason.

All firefighters are trained to the State of Ohio Firefighter Minimum Standards Level 1, with more of the firefighters maintaining advanced certifications up to the maximum firefighter certification (240 hours). Mason's emergency medical vehicles are staffed by a combination of emergency medical technicians (EMTs) and paramedics. Unlike many departments, the City of Mason Fire Department is accredited by the State of Ohio Division of Emergency Medical Services to teach and certify EMT and paramedic continuing education classes.

The Fire Department is responsible for fire prevention, public education, and inspections, with the fire marshals inspecting all City of Mason businesses at least once a year. The Fire Department works closely with the Engineering and Building Department in reviewing all the plans for new subdivisions, buildings, and additions to existing structures.

Salt Lick, Kentucky is located in Bath County with approximately now having a population of .

The first known settlers to Bath County arrived around 1774. Settlers were pleased with the a because of the abundance of food -animals to hunt- all due to having "licks".

A "lick" is where a mineral originates from the ground and saturates the soil or collects as deposits. Animals crave this mineral and would eventually herd to these places within the are Salt Lick. It was once stated that a couple of hunters had saw a herd of approximately buffalo at a "lick".

With more settlers to move into the area, the animals began to move out, as goes the cycle o civilization. In the late 1800's the railroad was built. Documented for Salt Lick to approximatel have the population of 800. Lumbering quickly became the industry for this little town. Salt Lick Bath County is in the Appalachian Mountains where chestnut, pine, oak, poplar, walnut, hick and cherry trees grew. But, as the industry was depleting, obviously as it would in time with th hardwoods, the population did as well in the 1930's. The only lumber to be found now may be white oak and scrub pine. As for the railroad, 1985 was the last train to rumble through the q town of Salt Lick.

For recreation Cave Run Lake was made in the early 1970's and extends into Bath County, which is no more than 20 minutes from Salt Lick. This man made lake is 8,720 acres abunda
